

In the ever changing wirweless business, it is crutial that simplicity be a major element of service. To require a user of wireless technology to continually change phone numbers in their effort to improve their service is counter productive. If wireless companies are allowed to force customers to change numbers, competetion is almost certainly eliminated. I strongly support protability of wireless numbers
Thank you for you time.